SUMMARY OF THE PROJECT

The Event Management System allows users to plan, organize, and manage events efficiently. It provides authentication features including secure login and signup pages. Users can browse services like photography, decoration, entertainment, and transport. The system also includes a shop section where users can purchase event-related products. The homepage offers a dynamic overview of available services and trending products. Each service category provides detailed descriptions, pricing, and booking options. The photography and entertainment sections let users explore professional options for their events. Decoration and transport services help users arrange logistics and visual aesthetics. The shop section offers products like furniture, lighting, tableware, and audio equipment. Users can add chosen products to a cart and complete the booking later. Admins can manage services, track bookings, and update the available inventory. The interface ensures a smooth, modern, and responsive experience for users. All data (users, orders, and services) are stored in a secure database. Users receive confirmation and summary details after successful bookings or purchases. The project aims to provide a one-stop digital solution for complete event planning.

LOGIN PAGE

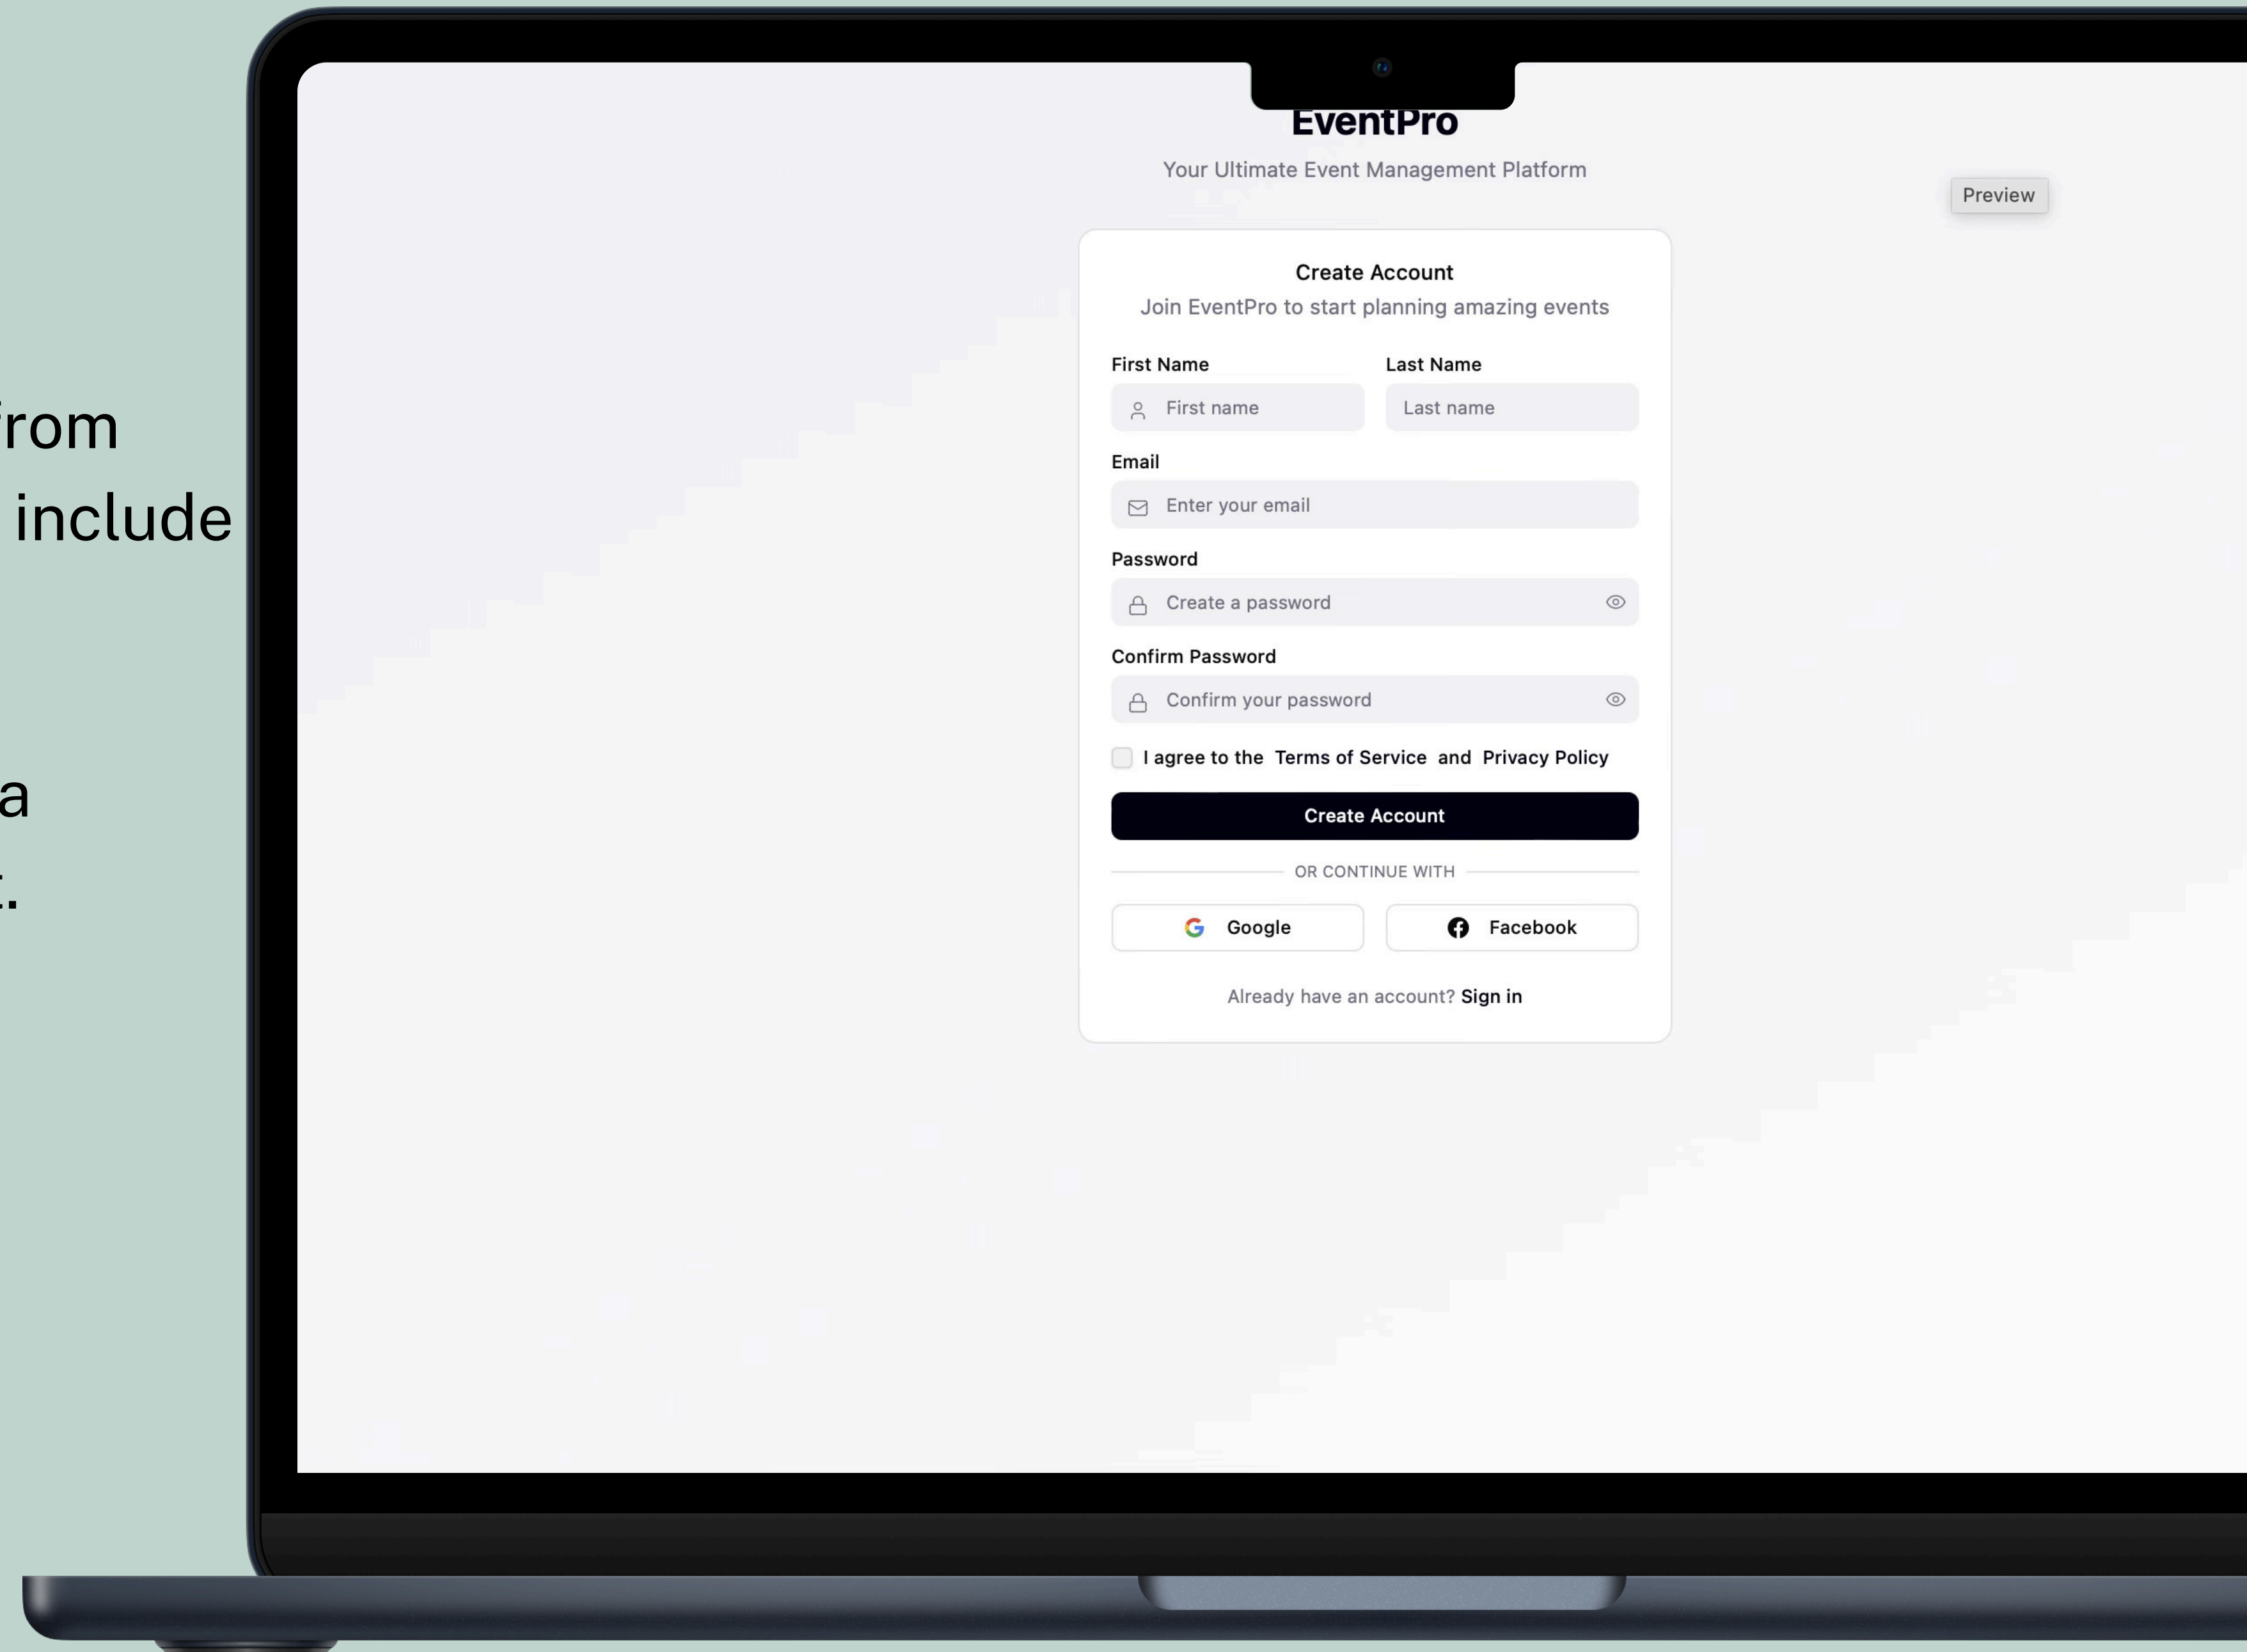

The Login Page serves as the secure entry point for existing users to access their accounts. It includes email and password input fields with proper validation and a “Forgot Password” option for recovery. Upon successful authentication, users are redirected to the homepage. The design ensures data security while maintaining a user-friendly interface. It provides instant feedback if incorrect credentials are entered, keeping the login process efficient and reliable.

SIGNUP PAGE

Describe with this direction is all about, and how it's distinct from other the directions. If you can, include links to relevant files or docs.

Replace the image with a Figma prototype or GIF to really sell it.

The Signup Page or Fill-Up Page allows new users to register by entering essential details such as name, email, and password. The form includes validation checks for email format and password strength, ensuring accurate and secure data collection. Once submitted, the user data is stored safely in the backend database. Upon successful registration, a confirmation message is displayed, and users are guided to the login page. This page ensures a smooth onboarding process for all new users.
